GRAND VIEW ELECTION

TO MAKE THIRD ATTEMPT TO SECURE ANNEXATION TO GLENDALE

Thursday night a resolution will come before the city council fixing a date for the Grand View District to vote on the question of annexation to Glendale, as requested in a petition signed by a majority of the voters in the territory, which was presented at the last council meeting. It will probably be appointed for some time in January.

This will be the third attempt made by residents of that section to secure annexation to this city. The first time the election carried by a good majority, but was declared void on some technicality. The second time it was voted upon Grand View cast in her lot with North Glendale, Casa Verdugo, etc., and though the electors in her district voted overwhelmingly for annexation, it did not carry in the larger territory and they lost out in consequence. Now they are trying it again independently and hope to put it through this time. If it carries, as there is every reason to expect it will do, it will add to the city a district with boundaries running northwest from the pumping plant along the San Fernando Road to half a block beyond Vine Avenue. From there the line runs northeast between Vine Avenue and Thompson Street to Tenth Street, then west one block, then north and northwest to Mountain Street, then from Mountain Street southeast to Grand View, then along Grand View to Kenneth Road, from Kenneth Road to the easterly line of the Reynolds place, and directly southwest along the line of the Reynolds place, crossing Sixth Street and joining the city limits at the Pacific Electric Burbank line, about 2,000 feet easterly from Grand View Avenue.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT BOYS

Telegrams which reached this city yesterday from Howard McGillis, Max Sherager, Harold McElroy and others announced the pleasure of the Glendale members of the Second Anti-Aircraft Division in once more feeling the soil of America beneath their feet. Howard McGillis' message stated they were all well and hoping to be home for Christmas. Some of the boys had planned to surprise their friends, but the arrival of the Leviathan with its thousands of troops was so big an event that it was heralded from one end of the country to the other and the Pacific coast knew it about as soon as the ships were sighted off New York. Big delegations will probably meet the boys when they reach Los Angeles.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Mrs. George Whitaker, chairman of the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call in Glendale, has called attention to the splendid record made by the little town of McGill, Nevada, which has a population of 2,730 and which has enrolled this week 2,450 as members of the Red Cross.

Glendale has a population of about 10,000, and she is hoping it will do as well. Those who have not turned in their dollars for the renewal of their Red Cross memberships should do so at once.

Miss Cecelia Lyons and Miss Irene Mauk had charge of the Red Cross booths yesterday at the corner of Broadway and Brand. They looked very fetching in their red caps and arm bands and certainly swelled the Red Cross funds. Miss Frank Kinch and Miss Irene Cole will have charge today. Their slogan will be "Everybody join!"

LITERARY SECTION

The Literary Section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club enjoyed a most interesting meeting on Tuesday, the subject being "Christmas Customs and Carols of Different Countries." Mrs. George Adams had charge of the program and her talk comprised the customs in Sweden, Poland, Serbia, England, Germany and America. The quaint and yet wholesome features of Christmas in foreign lands were compared with the present usages and phases of Christmas in this land —all most charmingly told.

Mrs. Calvin Whiting sang two carols, "Noel" and "Sleep, Holy Babe," in a very sympathetic manner that added much to the afternoon's enjoyment.

Plans were discussed and formulated for the program to be presented to the club Jan. 14 by the section. This program will be of a patriotic nature and home talent will be employed for the various characters.

WEATHER FORECAST—Thunder storms this afternoon. Thursday fair.

FROM OVERSEAS

BUGLER PERCY M'INTYRE TELLS OF WAR EXPERIENCES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM

From Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McIntyre of 135 North Cedar Street the following extracts from letters received by them from their son, Bugler Percy T. McIntyre, have been obtained. They afford an interesting diary of his experiences at the front since last August, and will be enjoyed by his many friends here. He is with Co. I, 364th Infantry, 91st or Wild West Division, and was in two battles, the battle of Argonne from September 26 to October 4, and the battle of Audenarde Heights in Belgium, from October 31 to November 4:

Somewhere in Belgium, Nov. 14.

Dear Mother: This is the second letter I have written you from Belgium, but I guess I didn't mention where I was in my last letter. We ramble around so much over Europe that I sometimes forget where I am myself. We have been in a couple of scraps over here and we are all hoping we have seen the last one. If the armistice comes out O. K. it will mean "finish war," as the French soldiers say. The Belgian people are certainly feeling happy and can't seem to do enough for the American soldiers.

We were only a few hours behind the retreating Germans when we stopped in this last town, and I guess the Belgians thought they had had quite a change of luck.

The 364th Regiment band is over here this afternoon, and right this minute they are playing "California" and it sure sounds good to me.

Your letter of October 21 came, and I would like to be having some of that warm California weather you write about. It is pretty cold here now, although there hasn't been much rain yet, but I look for it to start most any time. We always stay in "billets" whenever it is possible, and that is lots better than "pup tents."

I received one of those "long" letters from the Elks, and it certainly was appreciated.

Sam Moore and I got hungry last night and started out after eats. We stopped at a farm house near the edge of town, and with what small knowledge I have of German we made the old man understand that we wanted to buy some bread and butter. Fresh farm butter tastes pretty good to us, and this bread they make here has a little of everything in it, but it is very good eating, nevertheless. Of course we were asked in to sit by the fire for a while, where we proceeded to get filled up on buttermilk; it was a whole churn full and we had all we could drink. The Belgians are all very much interested in America and the soldiers and I had quite a talk about the United States and California with the old man. The conversation was carried

IRISH INFLUENZA

T. F. Higgins of 1161 East Adams street has received letters from relatives in the western part of Ireland, telling of the ravages of influenza there and in other parts of the Emerald Isle. The correspondents declare that it has "cleaned out" whole families. They call it "the plague" and claim it is as bad as the cholera was when that was epidemic many years ago. Mrs. Higgins' parents are in Ireland, as are also five brothers and two sisters. So far, none of them has been taken. The character of the country seems to make very little difference in the virulence of the disease, the death toll being heavy in some of the highest, dryest parts of the country.

Mr. Higgins says it has been a very prosperous year for his countrymen, as there has been a good demand for all products at excellent prices. Farmers particularly have benefited by business conditions.

FATE'S SHABBY TRICK

As already reported in the Glendale Evening News, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McCourt have returned from a trip to San Francisco, visiting Mrs. McCourt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey, at Hanford, where Mr. Dewey is postmaster. They have been anticipating a visit from Mrs. Dewey, who was to spend the holidays with them, but have just received word that fate has played her a shabby trick. Because of the terrible shortage of nurses, Mrs. Dewey volunteered to help care for patients at the County House where there was dire need. She succumbed to infection and is now ill of influenza herself. Miss McLean, who cared for Mrs. McCourt's children in the absence of their parents, has gone to Hanford to nurse Mrs. Dewey.

AMERICAN RESOURCES BEST WEAPON OF U. S.

ENGLAND AND FRANCE EAGER FOR RAW MATERIALS AND SHIPPING AT PROTECTED PRICES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Paris, Dec. 18.—The President will go to the Crillon Hotel at 5 o'clock this afternoon to meet the American peace delegation in the first conference of the entire delegation. Preceding the conference the President met Gabriel Honotaux, the former French foreign minister.

It is becoming apparent here that the most important weapon which the United States now has at the peace conference will be its ship-building facilities and its control of raw materials. It has been learned that France now wants a million tons of shipping built in the United States, and England seeks two million tons. Both nations are eager to effect an agreement whereby they will get this shipping and also secure from the American government action protecting them against overcharges for raw materials.

The President today denied a dispatch published in the United States that he had indorsed the program of the "League to Enforce Peace." "I am not only in favor a league of nations, but I believe the formation of such a league is absolutely indispensible to the maintenance of peace," he said. He added that "the particular plan of the League to Enforce Peace never has been directly or indirectly indorsed by me."

BERLIN INTERESTED IN PRESIDENT WILSON

HIS ACTIVITIES IN FRANCE THE CHIEF TOPIC OF GERMAN NEWSPAPERS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Berlin, Dec. 18.—President Wilson's activities in France are forming the most important stories used by the German newspapers.

The situation here continued serious today as a result of the radical outbreak yesterday. There has been no bloodshed, however.

MEXICAN SITUATION A PEACE ISSUE

GREAT BRITAIN MAY DEMAND A STABILIZED GOVERNMENT IN MEXICO BEFORE LEAGUE IS FORMED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Dec. 18.—The proposed league of nations may demand that the United States stabilize the Mexican situation, according to close observers of Mexican affairs here. The recent clash between British and Mexicans at Tampico and other events in Mexico are strengthening this belief. It is deemed even possible that England may demand the establishment of a stable government in Mexico before a league of nations is formed.

KNOX RESOLUTION POSTPONED

CONGRESS DEFERS ACTION ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS UNTIL PEACE IS SIGNED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Dec. 18.—The foreign relations committee of the Senate today postponed action on the Knox resolution favoring a postponement of consideration of the formation of a league of nations until a treaty of peace is signed.

Senator Knox declared that the peace treaty function is merely to settle issues between Germany and her enemies. He declared a league of nations should not be included, as neither he nor the American people know what the President means by a league of nations.

Senator Lodge disclaimed the authorship today of an article published in Paris, purporting to have been written by him, indorsing the league of nations. He declared he has never in any way indorsed the league.

AIRPLANE MAIL SERVICE

FIRST STEP IN ESTABLISHMENT OF AIR MAIL SERVICE BETWEEN NEW YORK AND CHICAGO

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

New York, Dec. 18.—Aviator L. D. Smith left Belmont Park, Long Island, at 7:30 o'clock this morning in a Curtis airplane with 200 pounds of mail, bound for Chicago. This is the first step in establishing a regular New York-to-Chicago air mail route.

AMERICAN NAVAL STATIONS IN EUROPE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Dec. 18.—Captain Laning of the navy bureau of navigation today told the House naval committee that the United States will keep naval stations at Cardiff and Queenstown and Brest until all American forces are ready to leave Europe. He said he did not believe that American forces would be home before July 1, 1919.

CONGRESSMAN MANN CANDIDATE FOR SPEAKERSHIP

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Dec. 18.—Republican Leader Mann announced today that he will be a candidate for Speaker of the House.

HEAR REPORTS

COMMITTEES OF GREATER GLENDALE DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION AT WORK

The Greater Glendale Development Association met in the Victor Hotel building, 127 North Brand Boulevard, Tuesday Evening, Dec. 17. The meeting was called to order by Chairman Norton C. Wells and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Secretary C. D. Lusby.

Citizens present were Norton C. Wells, Glen Ely, C. D. Lusby, W. E. Evans, Roy L. Kent, V. M. Hollister, Ernest Bode, Mr. Jay, A. F. Priest, W. B. Kirk, E. F. Parker, C. W. Ingledue, J. Herbert Smith, L. T. Rowley, E. K. Daniels, A. T. Cowan, D. Ripley Jackson, S. P. Stoddard, Herman Nelson, H. M. Butts and J. S. Thompson.

W. B. Kirk, chairman of the committee to report on need of a waiting room on the Pacific Electric road at Brand and San Fernando Road, said he had endeavored to get in touch with the proper Pacific Electric officials and by the time of the next meeting he would bring in a complete report. In this connection mention was made that water stands in a depression at this point of the Pacific Electric road and makes it disagreeable for passengers in times of wet weather. V. M. Hollister suggested that the track superintendent be notified of the condition of affairs there, and Chairman Wells stated that the Forest Lawn Memorial Park Association would be willing to furnish the rock to fill the depression if this would meet with the approval of the Pacific Electric.

Roy L. Kent, chairman of the industrial committee, said two sites had been offered for the experiment station which was spoken of at the last meeting. One is a house and acreage belonging to C. M. Walton and the other is property owned by John Robert White, Jr. Mr. Kent said he had written to Mr. Milbraith at Alhambra, who made the inquiries about these sites, stating what locations he had to offer, but up to the present he had not received a reply.

A very interesting communication was read from A. S. Dudley, assistant secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, stating that he is willing to assist the Greater Glendale Development Association in any way possible. Mr. Dudley is a resident of Glendale and has proved himself in the past to be one of our progressive citizens. In this letter the Glendale Association was invited

DEATH OF MR. WAGREN

The death of Albert O. L. Wagren at his home 209 E. Palmer avenue was particularly sad, as his wife and small son are ill with Spanish influenza, which was the cause of his death. Mr. Wagren was born in Sweden August 12, 1884, and was a jeweler by trade. He had lived in Glendale for about 18 months. His illness extended over a period of only seven days.

The Scovern-Letton-Frey Undertaking Co. have charge of the remains, which will be taken back to Sweden for burial.

YEAR-END MEETINGS

The Woman's Auxiliary and the Woman's Missionary Society of the Glendale Congregational Church will hold a combined all-day meeting Thursday, beginning at 10 a. m. Luncheon will be served at noon and will be followed by a social recess. The Auxiliary will assemble in the forenoon for the hearing of reports and the election of officers, and the Missionary Society will hold a similar meeting in the afternoon. As this is the last meeting of the year and the last over which the retiring presidents will preside, it will be more of a social function than the usual meetings, and all members and friends of the church are invited to attend.

HOMEWARD BOUND

H. A. Wilson is on his way home from New York, where he completed his training for overseas work in the Y. M. C. A., as many others did. He writes they are sending men home by the carload. His trip to New York was very pleasant and he was accompanied by Dr. Thompson of Burbank. He will visit relatives in Minneapolis, Minn., and River Falls, Wis., while en route.

FUNERAL OF FRANK RAGLAND

Funeral services over the body of Frank Ragland, who died Sunday at Douglas, Arizona, will be held Friday at 2 p. m., at the Pulliam Undertaking parlors. Members of the White Star Patrol of the Elks' Lodge, of which deceased was a member, will participate in the service. Interment will be made in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

A PIONEER PASSES

A. PENNINGTON MEEKER, THE FATHER OF RALPH MEEKER, DIES AT ANAHEIM

In the death of A. Pennington Meeker, father of Ralph W. Meeker of this city and of Leslie Meeker of Anaheim, California has lost another of its rapidly diminishing pioneers, a man who was prominently identified with its early history and who did much to build up its infant industries. Of late years he had divided his time between his winter home in San Diego and his summer home at Camp Meeker, in Sonoma County, frequently visiting the sons mentioned. For a year he had been in declining health. He had recently been the guest of Ralph Meeker, and about three weeks ago left Glendale to go to the home of Leslie Meeker in Anaheim, where he passed away Dec. 16. His sons have taken the remains to Sebastopol, California, where many members of this large family have been laid to rest.

A. Pennington Meeker was born in Milburn, N. J., the son of wealthy parents. In the midst of his college course the family fortune was swept away and he and a brother came to California by way of the isthmus to make their fortune. They had little money when they landed in San Francisco, but possessed good health, muscle, a good educational equipment and ambition. That was sixty years ago, and they experienced no difficulty in securing work. Eventually they settled in Sonoma County, where they took up tracts of government land densely forested with redwoods. A chain of sawmills was started by the brothers in Lake, Sonoma and Mendicino Counties to provide lumber for the rapidly developing country. Since that time these large land tracts have been gradually disposed of, and at the time of his death Mr. Meeker's sole holding in the forest where his start was made was the home in Camp Meeker already mentioned. The famous Camp Bohemia was originally a part of his holdings, and the thirty acres it includes were reserved for a camp when the rest of the lands were sold, because they were such a beautiful and typical bit of the original forest. So dense was the shade that scientists who visited the spot told Mr. Meeker there was evidence that the sun had not touched the ground under those giant trees for two hundred years.

His first wife, the mother of his sons Ralph and Lester, was the first female child born in the old mission in Sonoma County, and her father

CHRISTMAS SYMBOLS

GLENDALE SHOP WINDOWS ARE GAY WITH TREES AND BELLS AND SANTA CLAUSES

The show windows in the stores of Glendale are heralding the approach of Christmas, and shoppers linger in pleasure before them, whether they have purchases to make or not. Especially Christmassy is the Shaver Grocery Store, which is a forest of fir trees lovely in their greenery without decoration. Mr. McBain says these trees are an exception to most commodities, in that there has been no increase in the price in spite of the fact that freight rates and the cost of labor have gone up. A good tree can be bought for 50c, as last year, and the $2 tree costs no more. The market is better than last year because there is more of the Christmas cheer now that peace on earth prevails, he says. Then, too, last year the thought that the Christmas tree was a German institution held some patrons back who are buying this year. Orders for other holiday goods are larger than last year, particularly the packages of California goodies to be sent east for Christmas gifts. As an evidence of the extent of this trade, Mr. McBain states that 69 gift boxes left his store yesterday for eastern points.

The Newton Electric Co., across the street from Shavers on Broadway, also has very pretty windows. One is set as a snow scene with a small Christmas tree at one side. In the center is a novelty in the shape of a reversed electric carpet sweeper with the current on, in which the suction is utilized to keep an orange-colored ball in motion suspended above it. In the second window are Christmas bells and wreaths and all kinds of electric novelties suitable for Christmas gifts, hot water bottles, toasters, flash lights and the like.

The Glendale Phonograph and Piano Co. on Brand Boulevard has also been enterprising and made a pretty window, a snow scene with a little, old-fashioned cottage with a big chimney for Santa Claus to use.

GRATEFUL TO RED CROSS

General Petain, commander-in-chief of the armies of the north and northeast, pays the following tribute to the American Red Cross in a communication sent to Lieutenant Colonel Gibson, Red Cross commissioner for France:

"I have just reecived the letter in which you announce that the commission of the American Red Cross has voted a new credit of 10,000,000 francs in favor of the most needy families of French officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers.

"I address to you and beg you to transmit to all of the members of the American Red Cross my personal thanks as well as those of the French armies under my command.

"The intervention of the American Red Cross in both material and moral domain has not ceased to manifest itself since the great republic of the United States entered the war. It is particularly agreeable to me to feel again your charitable support at the moment when our troops, who have fought without cessation for more than four years, perceive the dawn of the day when France shall be liberated and when the Allied nations shall be in full victory.

"I know that in addressing the American Red Cross I speak in reality to the people of the United States. My thanks, therefore, go to your people and I am happy thus to have the occasion to transmit to them the evidence of the grateful affection of our army.

"The French troops will remain under arms probably for a long time, but thanks to your intervention, many of the cares will be dissipated and many of the misfortunes will be lightened.

"In the name of the humble ones who have been sacrificed, I thank you again, Mr. Commissioner, and beg you to accept the assurance of my very distinguished consideration."

THE WAR'S MESSAGE TO CAPITAL AND LABOR

In most places employers have given their best to the nation. There have been instances of disagreements between workmen and factory owners, and these the government, through the department of labor, is eradicating as best it can.

The employer does not realize as the workman does how cost of living mounts from day to day. The employe is none the less patriotic because he insists upon maintaining good living conditions for his family; the man who is satisfied with his job and whose domestic affairs are not continually worrying him can give the most effective service.

Most employers have shown a very real appreciation of their workmen's problems. Occasionally there is an employer of the old school, one whose mind has not kept abreast of the times and who does not realize the great demands that war has made upon the family income. Such men, who thought $3 a day good pay before the war, can see no reason why $3 is not good pay now, in spite of the fact that commodities have gone up in general from 60 to 75 per cent.

The war has been the means of spreading social education to quarters where otherwise it might never have come. The really big men of the employing class now realize that workmen are most efficient and loyal when well treated; that it is better for the workman to have a fur coat and automobile than not. The workman, on the other hand, has come to realize that mere possession of an automobile and a fur coat by the boss is no reason for the workman's chanting a hymn of hate.

That is the message that the war is bringing to the employer and the employe who will survive in the new time—large production will mean plenty for all, provided there is the tolerance and respect on both sides that will lead to industrial peace. The new era is at hand; the old-time business autocrat and the old-time labor demagogue are both non-essential in these times.—The Manufacturer.

THE IRISH RACE

At the coming peace conference the principle of self-determination for small nationalities is to be accepted, for the reason that it is unassailable from any point of view.

However, there still hovers in the midst of unenunciated statesmanship a kind of vague reservation as to the application of this principle to the case of Ireland.

If this reservation is founded on the fact that opposition to English rule on the part of Irish factions has differed greatly in degree and in method of manifestation, whether these differences have had their origin in different concepts of expediency or not, let us say so. But if it is admitted that the Irish people do possess a clear racial identity, and do comprise a national entity, surely some justification should be set forth now, before it is too late, for allowing any but the great majority of the Irish people themselves to determine Ireland's political future from the date of the peace treaty.

This is the hour for America to be calm; to keep her poise despite outside admiration for her poets as well as her soldiers. "What have we," sadly exclaims an English writer, speaking of American poets, in the London Literary Review, "what have we to put beside their strength, the audacity of their richness, but an apathy born of outworn tradition, some expression of a past we so imperfectly explore. It is not an hour for laughter, for indifference; the books are there, there is no barrier of language. Truly the time is ripe for a rediscovery of America." Fortunately for mental balance west of the Atlantic, it can be perceived, even in this unconditional surrender of poetic supremacy, that there are some in England who still remain indifferent, and even some who laugh!—Christian Science Monitor.

THE RED CROSS

The Red Cross, the flaming cross, the cross of love and hope,
That flies above the gory field where blinded soldiers grope,
That flaunts the breeze where battle flashes light the angry sky,
And valiant men go bravely forth to conquer or to die;

The Red Cross, the flaming cross, the cross of hope and love,
That bears to earth the message of the angel hosts above,
The message of the angel hosts who sang that blessed morn
When all the earth was wrapped in peace and Christ the Lord was born;

The Red Cross, the flaming cross, that over land and sea
Proclaims the worth of human life,
the might of charity;
Come, let us rally by its side, come
let us hold it high,
That faith and love and human hope may never, never die!

The American Red Cross Christmas Roll Call commenced December 16 and ends December 24.

There will not be another war drive, but the American Red Cross will depend upon its enlarged membership for funds to forward the great work yet to be accomplished in a stricken world.

The peoples of the invaded countries of Europe are left by the war in a most deplorable condition. The families of some of our soldier boys who fought for our safety and our liberty need comforting in their suffering.

The American Red Cross must "carry on." Those of us who have been protected from the horrors of war—those of us who have been free to go about our daily affairs in peace and security—must give needed support.

There is only one way left for us to show our appreciation of services performed, and that way is by answering "present," and by accepting membership when the roll is called by the loyal and persistent solicitors who are about to afford every one an opportunity to become a member of this wonderful organization.

Statistics of the membership at present throughout America show that the Pacific Division now leads the thirteen divisions of the country in enrollment, in proportion to population. These figures show 300.47 members for every thousand residents of the states of California, Nevada and Arizona.

The population of these three states is approximately 3,400,000. Our aim is to secure 100 per cent enrollment. To accomplish this result means that every member of every committee in the organization plan of the division must do his or her full share.

Every section in the three states in the Pacific Division has been thoroughly organized; the foundation for the campaign has been carefully laid. For months past, the newspapers, fraternal organizations, schools and churches have been lending every assistance. All are co-operating to the fullest extent with the roll call chairmen and committees to make the week of December 16 to 24—Red Cross Week—a tremendous success. If every worker in the cause bends his or her every energy to the task, our objective will be attained, and the largest possible percentage of members will be enrolled on America's great honor roll—the American Red Cross.

TO SAVE SHIPS' PAPERS

(By United Press)

Rome, Dec. 5. (By Mail.)—The Italian government has adopted for all of its mail steamers an invention by Engineer Marzio of Bari for saving papers and documents of a sinking ship.

The device consists of a watertight box which will float under any circumstances. It is attached to the ship in such a manner that it detaches itself from the sinking ship and is shot to the surface of the water, where it will float indefinitely.

The safe is brightly painted and equipped with hooks so that it can be seen and recognized by any passing ship and may be pulled aboard easily.

Peace does not mean a return to old-time food conditions. Two million soldiers and short food supplies overseas will mean keeping the lid on food supplies over here.

Why postpone until tomorrow the decision you can just as well make today? Delay is not decision.

Personals

Mrs. Sarason of 217 East Harvard Street and her small son are quite ill, but the doctor says it is only a bad cold and not influenza.

Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips and baby left Monday for Arizona. They have been making their home with Mrs. F. C. Hoffman on Wilson Avenue, mother of Mrs. Phillips.

Miss Birdie Lee Shropshire will entertain the Young People's class of the Christian Sunday School on Thursday evening at her home, 145 South Everett Street. The organization is known as "The Live Cole Class."

Private McBryde secured his discharge from Camp Bowie, near Fort Worth, Texas, on Thursday, and reached Glendale Saturday night, where he received a warm welcome from his wife and relatives. Like all the rest of the soldiers, he says there is no place like California.

A beautiful Christmas gift has come to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Frank of 108 Cypress Street, this city, to whom was born last Saturday night, at Thornycroft, a little daughter who is most welcome. It is their first child and the proud father is said to be several inches taller since SHE came.

Mrs. James S. Mullen of this city, who teaches in Lincoln High School, Los Angeles, is a very busy lady since the correspondence work was inaugurated in her school. She has 190 students under her instruction, each of whom is expected to turn in three papers a week which it will be her duty to read and correct.

Mrs. Pack entertained a few friends on Saturday evening, complimentary to Mrs. Ryan, who left this week to visit her daughter in the north. Christmas colors were in evidence and the place cards were dainty Christmas gifts, the work of the hostess. The evening was spent in auction bridge.

C. H. Joy, a former resident of Glendale and head of the commercial department in Glendale Union High, with his wife and little daughter, Genevieve, motored down from Santa Maria, where they now reside, and are spending two weeks here. They will be Christmas guests of Mrs. Lamberty on West Wilson Avenue, mother of Mrs. Joy.

Miss Sara Pollard, who has resided in Glendale for the past seven years and maintained an office as public stenographer and notary, has opened an office in the Broadway Central Building, Los Angeles, where she will be glad to see her friends and patrons. She will continue to reside in Glendale.

Corporal John Sharpe of this city, who has been stationed at Fort MacArthur ever since he enlisted with the coast artillery following his graduation from Glendale Union High many months ago, was a visitor here last week, but he has now come to stay, having received his honorable discharge as first class gunner last Saturday.

Mrs. E. D. Baker of West Colorado Street has returned from a six weeks' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. I. Harrison of San Francisco. She motored north with friends and returned by train and had a very nice time, barring the fact that she was quite ill for a while with influenza, her mother and sister having it at the same time, but as her father is a physician she had the best of attention and is none the worse for the experience.

W. W. McElroy hardly knew whether it was a business day or a holiday in banking circles Tuesday, he was so happy and excited. Cause? A night letter from his son, who arrived in New York Monday night on the Leviathan and with other units on the transport was welcomed by all New York. Harold telegraphed he was very glad to be back in the United States, that he would be home soon, and that he wished his parents a merry Christmas.

Will Laidlaw, a steel manufacturer of Kansas City, and Mrs. Laidlaw, were dinner guests Tuesday evening of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Baker of Colorado Street. Mr. Laidlaw is Mr. Baker's uncle. He and his wife expect to spend five or six months in Southern California. They have been here before, but have never been able to make a leisurely inspection of the country until now and they are enjoying it very much. They will motor to San Francisco before returning to Kansas City.

Lieutenant Arthur Best, who is a student in the Northwestern Military and Naval Academy at Lake Geneva, Wis., is the guest of Marshall Pearson of Lomita Avenue, this city, a student in Glendale Union High School. The two young men were friends in Imperial Valley, where their parents have large interests. Lieutenant Best is here for the Christmas holidays and will spend a part of his time with Los Angeles friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Runyon of Dakota have come to spend the winter in Glendale, after visiting a daughter in Canada. They are now at the home of H. A. Goodwin on Windsor Road.

Influenza has gotten busy in the families of some of the prominent Adventists. Children of C. E. Kimlin, business manager of the Glendale Sanitarium, and of C. H. Jones, connected with the X-ray department, and of Elder J. A. Stevens are ill with it. The structure formerly used as a school building in the sanitarium grounds has been fitted up as an influenza hospital ward, where many of the patients are being cared for.

The wife and parents of Private Noble Ripley received letters from him this week which immensely relieved their anxieties. He reached France about the time the armistice was signed and so has had no chance to do his bit face to face with the Hun. His letters had been held back, and one of October 20 arrived at the same time that another letter dated November 20 reached here. He wrote that he was well and his experiences had been worth while.

The British Ambulance Society has moved its headquarters one door east from its former location on Broadway, and now occupies the building donated by J. F. McIntyre. A large consignment of warm garments is ready for shipment, showing splendid and efficient work done by the members, who work every Friday and Monday. On Monday, Dec. 23, and Friday, Dec. 27, the workroom will be closed, but work will be resumed on Monday, Dec. 30. All who are interested in war relief work can find ample opportunity in this society for assisting in a very material manner to alleviate suffering by sewing for the poor and needy ones.

There is gloom in the social camps of Glendale Union High, because it now seems probable that the student festivities which usually mark the holiday season will not take place on account of the influenza epidemic. When such retrenchments were sacrifices to war, disappointment was swallowed up in patriotism; but now that peace has spread her wings over the world and "the boys are coming home," it is hard to have the joy festivals cut out. The juniors had planned for their annual hop on New Year's Eve, and the seniors had talked tentatively of a dance. Besides these, several private parties were in prospect. It is not certain that all will be abandoned, but the young people have their fears.

A FAIR SAMPLE

A very fair sample of the way the patrons of the Evening News treat the question of paying subscriptions in advance was illustrated by Judge H. M. Miller this afternoon. The judge had been notified that the time for which his Evening News subscription had been paid would expire Dec. 20 of the present month. He came smiling into our office at about 12 o'clock and threw down $5, saying: "Extend my subscription to the extent of $5." His subscription date now reads March 20, 1920.

NO P. T. A. MEETING

By decision of the executive committee of the Broadway P. T. A., the meeting announced for Thursday afternoon has been called off. Members are reminded, however, that there is still plenty of Red Cross work to be done, and members are asked not to forget the Christmas donations of food and clothing which are generally made through the schools. The need this year is just as great. Red Cross work that is out will be called for, and members who desire further information can obtain it by communicating with the president of the association, Mrs. Kulp.

DEATH OF MRS. CURTIS

Services over the remains of Mrs. Nora Bellringer Curtis, a prominent woman of Eagle Rock, will be held at the Scovern-Letton Frey undertaking parlors in Glendale, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The deceased was 36 years of age. She was the wife of R. C. Curtis of 119 North Peyton Avenue, and passed away at Long Beach after a brief illness. She is survived by her mother and two brothers. Her father was the late Edward Bellringer, who was engaged in the manufacture of art glass for many years.

Ladies of the Glendale Presbyterian Church will sew at the church as usual Thursday for war relief. They are requested to come equipped with needles and thimbles. Everybody is invited.

on in a mixture of English, French and German—mostly German.

Well, will have to close and get back to my post, as I am bugler on duty at battalion headquarters today. Give everybody my love and regards. Love to you. PERCY.

From earlier letters the following extracts are taken:

Nov. 6.—We are just back from the front again and it sure seems good to get into a hay loft to sleep. Sleeping in a hole in the ground under shell fire is better than no sleep at all, of course, but it has its disadvantages.

We have been on the march as usual. We camped a couple of nights on one of the famous battlefields of this war, and if it doesn't come up to all the description of a No Man's Land I'll shake hands with the kaiser. In addition to the usual round of excitement I have had the pleasure of a couple of night air raids, but as the sun-of-a-gun was after railroads and was a pretty good shot, I didn't lose any sleep over it. I thought I had seen some wild sights when the old L. A. River used to go on a rampage, but airplanes and high explosives can change the topography of a city more effectively than anything I ever saw or heard before.

I am sorry this letter is so late. I hope to do better next time. I can hear our heavy artillery right now putting over a lot of good, sound "peace talk" tonight, so it may not be long before I can write it.

Oct. 6. (Battle of Argonne.) I am just back from the front and can say at last I have seen real war and know what it is like. We were at the front for several days and in action all the time. Our company was lucky and pulled through with few casualties. I didn't get hit, but I sure had some close calls. My little mining experience helped wonderfully when I had to dig in to get away from shrapnel. I have not had my clothes off for several weeks, but I think they are all there, so I should worry. I can't tell all I would like to about all I have been through, but it will all keep.

Aug. 13.—The 1918 stylus which you sent to Camp Lewis was forwarded and I received it at Camp Merritt and brought it with me to France, and I certainly have had a lot of enjoyment from it, but I will have to leave it the next move we make, as we go next from billets to bullets.

to become a member of the California Associated Secretaries, the membership fee being $3 per year. On motion it was decided that the Association join this state organization. A motion also prevailed that the secretary attend the meeting of the California Associated Secretaries of the Chambers of Commerce at Monterey, Jan. 27, 28 and 29, and that his expenses be borne by the Glendale Association. Provisions have been made that all secretaries attending this meeting be allowed free transportation by railroads and steamship lines.

Roy L. Kent approved of the plan of having the secretary attend the meeting at Monterey, but advised that a publicity committee prepare suitable printed matter advertising Glendale before that time and that the secretary take such printed matter with him and let the associated secretaries know that Glendale is on the map.

In the absence of the regularly appointed publicity committee, Roy L. Kent, A. T. Cowan and W. E. Evans were appointed a committee to prepare suitable advertising.

The absence of C. L. Chandler, chairman of the committee on public parks, did not permit of a statement being made as to the progress made by this committee. This is an important question and it is hoped that Mr. Chandler will have an interesting report to make at the next meeting.

The question of Glendale participating in the Tournament of Roses on January 1 was considered. Chairman Wells said he appeared before the board of trustees at their meeting last Thursday evening; asking what appropriation they would see fit to make to assist in the preparation of a float or the hiring of a band to represent Glendale at Pasadena on January 1. He stated he had since learned that the city voted an appropriation of $50 to be applied in the way the Greater Glendale Development Association would think best. Mr. Wells said he had inquired into the expense of getting a band and had learned that it would cost from $65 to $160. He said the Kiltie Band could be secured for $65. It seemed to be the opinion of those present that it would be a good plan to have the Kiltie Band represent Glendale, providing suitable banners could be arranged for to identify this band with Glendale. The question of preparing a banner was referred to Mr. Kent.

At the request of the chair, Capt. D. Ripley Jackson explained the work he had been doing in connection with the Red Cross Roll Call and reported that he had driven 90 miles on Tuesday and had assisted in straightening out complications at about fifteen centers, among them being Covina and Huntington Park. However, he succeeded in returning with more than $300 to the credit of the Red Cross.

Adjournment was made to meet Tuesday evening, Jan. 7, when it is expected to hold the banner meeting of the association.

CITY W. C. T. U.

The Glendale City W. C. T. U. will meet with the president, Mrs. Smart, 110 Olive Street, Friday afternoon, Dec. 20, at 2 o'clock. Subject, "The Crusades and the World Outlook." Everyone bring one.

CURFEW DISTURBS VILLAGERS' SLEEP

(By United Press)

London, Dec. 6. (By Mail.)—"Can you tell me what they ring that bell for at 8:30 every evening?" a doughboy asked of a Y. M. C. A. secretary in an English camp.

"That is the curfew," the secretary explanied, and went on to tell what the curfew is.

"Do you mean to say that these folks are supposed to ring off every night at half-past eight?" the soldier questioned in amazement. "Gee! I'll say they are dead around here half of the time and asleep the other half"

A few days later the same doughboy returned and hailed the "Y" secretary delightedly.

"Say," he chuckled, "do you know what? I've got a better one yet. You know that curfew I was asking you about that rang at 8:30? Well, they had to stop ringing it, because all the people complained they didn't want that blamed bell ringing and waking them up just as they got to sleep!"

RED CROSS HUNTS WOUNDED YANKEES

(By United Press)

Paris, Dec. 4. (By Mail).—"American, British, Canadian, Australian. On the admission of soldiers to hospitals, this card should be filled out by him or by the nurse, unless the soldier is to be immediately evacuated."

Cards bearing this legend in French and English have been sent out by the American Red Cross to all French hospitals behind the lines. When you are evacuating thousands of men a day from a front hospital, you can't stop to sort them according to nationalities, you can't run a special sanitary train for half a dozen Americans, who were picked up on the field by French stretcher-bearers and operated on by French doctors in a French flying ambulance. That is how it happens over and over again that some little French hospital in the south or west or center of France finds itself with one or two or even a dozen American patients.

No matter how kind people are to you and how much they make of you, it is a bit hard to be sick in a place where nobody speaks your language, so the American Red Cross has set out on a hunt for every American and every other English-speaking soldier in a French hospital. The cards they are distributing are in the form of postals with a set of questions printed in both French and English. They ask for the name, rank, regiment number and company of the man, his general condition and the name and address of his next of kin. All the cards go to the office of the American Red Cross in Paris, where they are sorted, those of the British, Canadians or Australians being turned over to their respective Red Crosses, and the American ones acted on directly.

To the nearest Red Cross worker is sent the address of the French hospitals in her district where there are American wounded, and she is asked to go and see the boys. Clothing is sent them if they need it, cigarettes, chocolate, fruit and the various "extras" that the wounded man, who almost never loses his appetite, craves.

Four thousand cards have gone out already and the hospitals have been asked to call for more just as often as they need them. American soldiers are finding it harder and harder to get lost in France.

HERE'S CONTENDER FOR FRYING PRIZE

(By United Press)

With the American Army in France, Dec. 5. (By Mail.)—Since the great war is about settled, a new conflict threatens to break out over the question of what Y. M. C. A. woman coined the greatest number of doughnuts a day for distribution among the American boys who swept across France into Germany. A strong bid for championship is made on behalf of Miss Elizabeth Bass, a member of the National Arts Club, New York, now a canteen worker for the Red Triangle. Single-handed she can mix and fry 5,000 doughnuts a day, and with assistants can produce 10,000 in that span.

Miss Bass ought to effect maximum efficiency in the doughnut line with minimum equipment and minimum ingredients, because she ran a cafeteria before coming to France. Consequently her making of the crisp, savory doughnuts for which she is famous in her division is no hit-or-miss affair, but the result of experience in practicing domestic science and of careful planning.

In the French village in which she was stationed she was able to find and commandeer an iron vat of mammoth proportions. Then she estimated how great a quantity of dough she needed to keep the vat working at its full capacity, and proceeded to make it. For the first few days she turned out only two or three thousand doughnuts. Later she produced, single-handed, 5,000. When she was able to procure assistants, she carefully subdivided the job of assembling the flour, milk, shortening and sugar, or its substitute, the mixing and popping into the sizzling fat; and together they fried 10,000 a day.

The doughboys are keeping careful records of the production of this doughnut factory. They say they are going to tack them up in their kitchens at home. They are wondering if any one of their wives can make 5,000 doughnuts a day. When they get home they are going to ask them to, anyway.

ITALY WILL RUN HER CO-OPERATIVE STORES

(By Henry Wood, United Press Staff Correspondent.-

Rome, Nov. 21. (By Mail.)—Following the remarkable development the co-operative stores movement has taken in Italy as a result of the war, the Italian government has provided for establishment of these institutes under government control.

The government co-operatives will in no way interfere with the privately established ones already existing under the auspices of various organized bodies such as the railway employes, the various labor unions, government employes, newspaper men, and, in fact, by just about every civil, social, labor and fraternal body existing in Italy.

The government co-operatives at the outset will provide for supplying 350,000 families, or over 1,500,000 individuals.

It is expected that in the purchase on the open market of the food and other merchandise that will be sold by these co-operatives, a saving of 5 to 8 per cent will be effected. A similar saving will be made in the selling price to the members of each co-operative. These latter at the end of the year will also participate in any profits which the government co-operatives may have acquired.

This establishment of government co-operatives by Italy marks the greatest advance made yet by any government in assuming governmental responsibility for lowering the cost of living.

STONE LAID FOR EACH TRIBE

The foundation stones of the Hebrew University at Jerusalem, recently laid in the presence of General Allenby and representatives of the French and Italian detachments, are twelve in number, one for each of the twelve tribes of Isorael.

The site is on the summit of the Mount of Olives, facing Jerusalem on the one side and the Hills of Moab on the other.

HELPS FOR CAR OWNERS

If Motor Fails to Start

1. Be sure gear-shift lever is in neutral position.
2. Look in the gasoline tank.
3. Be sure that the gasoline is running into the carburetor.
4. Be sure that the ignition switch is turned on.
5. Be sure that all the terminals are tight on the batteries, and on all parts of ignition system, and that no wires are short-circuited in any way.
6. Be sure that the battery is not below the limit of strength.
7. Examine the spark plugs to see that they are clean and points properly set.
8. Be sure that spark is being delivered to plug.
9. Be sure that gasoline is not mixed with kerosene or water. Water, which is heavier than gasoline, can be separated from gasoline by draining the carburetor.
10. In extremely cold weather the gasoline may be too cold to vaporize. By priming the cylinders through the cups on top of motor (if no cups remove spark plugs to insert gasoline) with pure gasoline the difficulty may be overcome.

It is also possible to flood the motor with too much gasoline; if so, it is necessary to clean out this rich gas from the cylinders. With the ignition switch turned on, retard the spark and throttle lever on the sector, and, with the exhaust cocks open, spin the motor a few turns with the starter or by hand, always remembering the caution that to operate the motor by starter for too long a period unnecessarily weakens the battery charge. After working out the gasoline close the exhaust cocks and crank in the regular way.

If the Motor Stops

It is due to:

1. Lack of gasoline. See that the gasoline line or carburetor is not clogged up with dirt, waste, etc.
2. Lack of oil.
3. Overheating of motor due to lack of water or oil.
4. Improperly adjusted carburetor.
5. Failure of ignition system. (a) exhausted battery; (b) short-circuiting of wire or terminal; (c) disconnected or broken wires.

If Motor Overheats

It is due to:

1. Lack of proper lubrication.
2. Carbon in the cylinders.
3. Incorrect adjustment of carburetor.
4. Broken fan or a slipping fan belt, causing motor to heat rapidly.
5. Driving with improperly advanced or retarded spark.

If Motor Fails to Develop Power

It is due to:

1. Compression leaks.
2. Improper carburetor adjustment, giving too rich or too lean a mixture.
3. Ignition spark weak, due to faulty ignition system, dirty or improperly adjusted spark plugs.
4. Brakes dragging.
5. All causes under "If Motor Overheats."

If Motor Misses

It is due to:

1. Gasoline mixture too rich or too lean.
2. Spray nozzle in carburetor intermittently closed by loose particles of dirt.
3. Valve spring weak or broken; binding or broken valve, or one badly in need of grinding.
4. Excessive motor lubrication.
5. Ignition trouble, such as faulty spark plugs, weak battery, broken, disconnected or grounded wires.

ITALY COMPLETES CENSUS

(By United Press)

Rome, Dec. 5. (By Mail.)—Italy's census, which has just been completed for the year 1916, shows that at the end of that year her population was 36,531,491. During the year there were 103,881 marriages, 881,626 births and 721,558 deaths, the latter not including those killed at the front. This gives Italy a death rate for that year of 19.70 for every 1,000 of population, in comparison with 19.36 for the year preceding. Statistics of 1917 are being completed.

CHRONOMETER AND LONGITUDE

Longitude baffled all navigators until the chronometer came into use in 1735. The ancients and later navigators, including all the great discoverers, could find their latitude by observations of the sun's height, but they could determine their longitude only by "dead reckoning," or estimating their ship's prograss from day to day. This system was uncertain and caused a great many shipwrecks.

A PIONEER PASSES

was Fremont's guide on the Oregon trail. He subsequently came to Sonoma County, where he established a home and planted the first apple orchard in the county.

Pennington Meeker was one of a family of seven—four brothers and three sisters—and until three years ago the circle was unbroken. Now but four are left. The old home in New Jersey in which they were born was standing until a few years ago. It antedated the Revolutionary War and was near Valley Forge. A favorite pastime of the brothers was the digging up of war relics, of which there is a fine collection still in existence.

Mr. Meeker was also a soldier and served in the regiment that helped to preserve California to the Union when a rebel plot was made to make it a part of the Southern Confederacy. He was a splendid shot and had need to maintain his fine marksmanship, for life was very insecure in those early days, particularly in logging camps. It was the policy never to refuse work to newcomers, no matter how dubious their reputations, and the presence of men known to be bandits was not infrequent. As a measure of safety he made it a point to demonstrate that he could shoot better than they did, and as he was wonderfully quick in his movements and always went armed, he inspired the wholesome respect of "bad men." In spite of that, however, he had several narrow escapes.

His life was so identified with the thrilling early days of California that his passing is more than the common loss.

PARSONS COME BACK

(By United Press)

London, Dec. 2. (By Mail.)—The war has taught a lesson to the clergyman as well as to the layman.

Those priests and parsons who donned khaki and went "over there" to tend their flock have learned how best to influence the men; one padre, for instance, found it was no use exhorting them to "come and pray," so instead he stuck a notice outside his door saying, "Come in and risk meeting the padre," and they came.

Padres frequently were seen wandering around the camps with a Bible in one hand and a box of cigarettes in the other, for they learned that Tommy, in his extremity, asked, not for prayers, but for a smoke and companionship. Armed with the necessary "smoke," it became easy to give Tommy the right kind of companionship.

Hundreds of men who, before the war, had no good word to speak for clergymen, are now enthusiastic in their praise of the padres, whom they realize to be men like themselves—men with a sense of humor, of patriotism and of courage.

When they all get back home the bond between clergymen and lay men will be strengthened by the memory of the "padre" who so often succeeded in getting his men onto the right track.

A PUZZLER

A man walking along a country road came to a small pond. On a tree at the water's edge was nailed a board bearing the following badly scrawled warning: "Don't Fish Hear." The man pondered over it for a moment or two, then resumed his journey with the comment: "Blamed if I know."—Everybody's Magazine.
